

CLAIRE M. ZANGERLE, DNP, MBA, RN, FAAN

Claire Zangerle is chief executive officer of the American Organization for Nursing Leadership and senior vice president, chief nurse executive of the American Hospital Association. In her role at AONL, she leads a membership organization of more than 12,000 nurse leaders whose strategic focus is excellence in nursing leadership. In addition, she works collaboratively with the AHA to ensure the perspective and needs of nurse leaders are heard and addressed in public policy issues related to nursing and patient care.

Zangerle previously served as principle of CMZ Strategies, LLC, offering nurse leader coaching and nursing organization strategy. She is the former chief nurse executive at Allegheny Health Network and CEO of the Visiting Nurse Association of Ohio. Zangerle spent several years at the Cleveland Clinic where she served in a variety of roles, including as chief nursing officer, director of quality and accreditation and director of preventive cardiology.

Zangerle holds a Doctor of Nursing Practice from Texas Christian University, a master's in business administration (healthcare) from Lake Erie College, a master's in nursing administration from Kent State University and a Bachelor of Science in Exercise Physiology from Texas A&M University. She is a fellow of AONL and the American Academy of Nursing and is board certified as an advanced nurse executive with the American Nurses Credentialing Center.
